This webinar focused on “Efforts to Improve Outcomes” which is a narrative reporting element that is required in the PIRL. It is also a unique communication channel between state grantees and the Office of Trade Adjustment Assistance for elevating strategies that support successful program administration in a variety of areas. Effective FY 2019, these entries are scheduled to be posted to OTAA’s website for peer sharing and will also be available to the general public.

In this webinar, we discussed what they are, why they are reported, and why they are especially critical at this time.

We also discussed how to write high-quality narratives for "Efforts to Improve Outcomes", including the types of information that users should or should not include. Good and bad examples were also shared.

Finally, we discussed how to submit them and what happens after they are received. Past entries have been selected for ETA Workforce publications and featured in Workforce GPS webinars.

Additional resources are the Efforts to Improve Outcomes FAQ and the outline document which includes details on writing a clear and concise response.
